STORY OF TOM MARSHALL.

Tom Marshall at one time indulged in such excesses that his friends became alarmed, and determined to make an effort to reform him. Mr. Mangum was designated to demonstrate with the wild Kentuckian, and endeavor to impress him with a proper sense of the peril of his position.

'I'll hear anything you have to say, Mangum,' said Marshall, as the Senator opened the conversation.

'Your friends have been greatly concerned at the manner in which you have been conducting yourself.'

'Don't wonder at it. Been badly bothered myself. Sent you here to talk to me didn't they?'

'Yes; they thought, as I sometimes take a glass myself, my advice would have the more effect.'

'You do drink too much Mangum. I've been thinking of speaking to you on the subject. But what do you want me to do?'

'Your friends have the greatest admiration for your genius and talents. They are confident that, with sobriety, and application you might reasonably aspire to the highest place under the government.'

'What do you think I could get?'

'I have no doubt you might be made Chief Justice of the United States.'

'There's been one Chief Justice in my family; I don't care to follow him.'

'You might even hope to become President.'

'No great credit to follow Captain Tyler.—But I tell you what I'll do, Mangum; you make me President of the United States, and if I don't make you Secretary of State I'll agree to be blanked!; Let's take a drink.'—An Old Stage, in Harper's Magazine for June.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK.

Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.

WASHINGTON, May 9, 1874.

It is generally conceded here that the inflation balloon has collapsed, and with it two or three Presidential aspirants. The veto did certainly cook the goose of the Senator from Indiana, and from all appearances was so designed by the ingenious gentleman who put his name to it. Say what they will of Grant, that he is an offense to the crusaders and the grangarians, that he is a whirligig employed by the gods to bring in their revenges, it cannot be denied that there has been a singular method in his operations, both political and military. I have a fancy that the Courier-Journal used to observe, in its unreflecting, facetious way, that there was no danger that he might never be got out of the White House except upon a stretcher. Well, this silly conceit, in a rather milder form, begins to obtain something like consideration here. It is now believed in Washington, soberly and by the coolest-headed men, that Grant means a second term, and that he does not reckon without his host. I confess that I think he has even more than that in his mind's eye. When I look back into the origin, course and tenor of his administration; when I played with parties before he became President, and how he has played with the politicians since; when, bewildered and awe-struck, I gaze upon the composition of his Cabinet; when I consider the cool way he would dispose of Washburne; when I see his equipage rolling through the streets in a defiant regal style, unused to the simplicity of a republican court, and know his private habits are equally defiant, and mindful of these things, when I remember that nobody is shocked or alarmed, I can work out no other result as the natural, the inevitable purpose of his mind and heart than that sort of personal government to which Prince Louis Napoleon addressed himself after his elevation to the Chief Magistracy of the French Republic. And why not? Look at the state of parties. There are in the Republican party but two considerable men remaining on the scene as Presidential probabilities, Blaine and Washburne. The veto killed Morton as dead as a door-nail. It set Logan back a thousand years. Conkling is not in Grant's way. He and Grant have made a league, offensive and defensive. If Washburne comes home and goes into the Cabinet, that will be the end of him. Blaine is a man of extraordinary energy and spring—by odds the brightest man in Congress—but, with a divided party, what show will he have? Cross over to the Democratic party. It is not only divided, but it has not one single leader of genius and nerve. Thurman is a solemn respectability, cold and virtuous. Hendricks is an amiable common-place. The Grangers come in between the two. They are merely slate-smashers. They embrace only a class, are sectional and local. The out-and-out Liberals are scattered. The South is a cipher. It is in a condition to sell out or be crushed out. Thus behold the opportunity and the man; a dismal prospect indeed, but a real and a dangerous prospect.

Arkansas is nuts to Grant. Instead of injuring his administration it adds to his personal strength by contributing to a gathering national and popular discontent. Strangely enough there is little disposition to hold him responsible for such occurrences that, under his sanction and through his agents, have disgraced the whole country in the various Southern States. They only render it more easy for him to mold the South to his hand in 1876.

Thus matters stand at the present moment. Grant is the central figure. The Democrats are just strong enough to lose. The Grangers are just weak enough to hold their own. The Liberals are neither strong enough nor weak enough to count except as idealists. Everything seems to favor Grant. No matter what is done it leans Grantward. If the Presidential election should come off this year nothing could keep him from a third term, and, elected for a third term, the Courier-Journal's stretcher will be the last resort of the impracticables. They will not be able to compass his overthrow by the old, peaceful means. A third term means revolution, and Grantism and revolution are synonyms. They imply the same thing. They are convertible terms.

Enough of this, however. I scribble down a few stray notions which come to me between the sherry and the champagne, none the less serious for the wine, believe me. It makes a Southern man of liberal ideas and good intentions, schooled in the dangerous field of practical revolution, sick to seek the obtusity and the callousness of the North in Congress. Take any or all of them—take such languishing idiots as Hoar and such protesting harlots as Hawley—twin representatives of the prevailing hypocrisy—and then jump to the rank and file of adventurers, Democratic and Republican, and one is tempted to exclaim, 'There is but one honest man at Washington, and that man is Ben Butler!' It is cruel but it is at least half true, for the most part humbugs or imbeciles, and it cannot be said, whatever their deformities may be, that Butler is either.

A green grocer—One who trusts.

A DIABOLICAL OUTRAGE.

Panama, May 3.—A correspondent writing from San Jose, Guatemala, under date of the 25th ult., describes a diabolical outrage committed at that port on a British subject by a Colonel Gonzalez, military commandante there. Soon after the arrival at San Jose of the steamship Arizona, on route from San Francisco to Panama, it was whispered about that Mr. Moncrief, agent of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co., and John Magee, H. B. M.'s vice consul, had been arrested by order of the commandante, and that Magee was sentenced to receive 400 lashes at 4 P. M. Considering the position of Magee, the statement was scarcely credited. Moncrief was released and allowed to go on board the steamer. Magee being unable to walk down to the mule where said commandante waited to see him, an armed guard was sent to bring him dead or alive. When he was brought into the presence of Gonzalez he was only prevented from shooting Magee by the intercession of friends. He then struck him with the butt of his revolver, and ordered him to be taken and put in confinement until he recovered so he could administer the 400 lashes which he had threatened. As H. B. M's Vice-Consul Magee invoked the protection of his flag, but without avail. Mr. James, consular agent of the United States, prepared a protest in the name of his government and presented it just as Gonzalez was about to commence the flogging of Magee. The commandante became furious and threatened to serve James and every foreigner as he was going to do Magee. He was equally deaf to the surgeon of the port, who said that 400 lashes would kill Magee. 'Let him die, then,' was the reply vouchsafed. Magee was then partially stripped and laid on the floor. Three men were directed to sit over his head and shoulders, and four over his feet, with a man holding each arm. The flogging was done by four soldiers; relieving each other after every fifty lashes, the commandante keeping tally. By the time two hundred lashes had been given, Magee was insensible. An order was given to carry him to an adjoining room, there to rest so as to be ready to receive the other two hundred lashes the next morning, and then be shot afterwards. Before this was done Gonzalez put a guard around the telegraph office, and prevented messages being sent to the capital. The night was spent in pillaging Magee's quarters and in drunken orgies. Mr. Moncrief at once sent off a courier to the capital, who telegraphed his message from the first station he came to, which brought down at once General Solares with one hundred men. At 8 A. M., Magee, by orders of Colonel Gonzalez, was being made ready to receive the two hundred lashes of his sentence, when the soldiers descried the approach of the force under General Solares. On hearing the news the commandante ran away, in company with Mr. James, United States consular agent, to take refuge on board the Arizona, but just as he was ascending the gangway ladder a shot from some unknown hand put such a monster out of the world he disgraced.

M. S. LITTLEFIELD.—The Editor of the Wilmington 'Journal' is on a visit to Florida. He writes as follows of Littlefield:

Our quondam friend Littlefield still holds forth at Jacksonville, and we understand entertains his friend in royal style. He has a fine residence, elegant yacht and equipages, and enough money to purchase immunity from arrest, and those who know that Florida Governors are, well understand how much that takes.

He got four millions of dollars of Florida Bonds to complete the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad from Quincy to Pollard, a distance of two hundred miles. He built twenty miles to Chattahoochee, and there it ends. To be sure he did not pay his contractors, but that was a species of financiering in which he was skilled by his experience in Western North Carolina.

During the pendency of the bill before the Legislature, Littlefield's drafts in sums convenient for commercial purposes were in circulation freely on the streets of Tallahassee. The members seem to have them to such an extent that one could suppose that their per diem pay was paid in this scrip.

A WHITE MAN'S PARTY.

The Charlotte Democrat makes the following significant suggestion:

'It is every day becoming more apparent that here in North Carolina the white people will have to do as they did in Virginia at the last State election, organize a white man's party and declare that white man shall rule the State. The insured is being forced on the whites by the colored people themselves, and it is being forced on those who have been friends, but in whom the colored men seem to place no political confidence. * * * * * * We are in favor of according to the colored man all necessary rights, but not as provided in the bloodletting Civil Rights Bill proposed by old Sumner. We shall always favor the rule of white men as the best means to promote the material interests of both black and white citizens.'

GOING BACK ON THE NEGRO.

A Washington correspondent of the Atlanta Herald, speculating upon the failing struggle of the pending civil rights bill, has this to say about the condition of Cuffee at the capital in the midst of his particular friends:

'A year or two ago it was no uncommon thing to see the galleries of both houses of Congress crowded with dirty lazy negroes, who stretched themselves at full length on the benches and slumbered peacefully through the long debates. Now, as soon as a negro is caught asleep about the galleries, he is turned out by the doorkeepers and, this has tended greatly to decrease the number of the man and brother who give their attention to legislative proceedings. The press, also, is complaining constantly of the conduct of the negroes on the street cars, and has on more than one occasion urged that separate cars be kept for their accommodation. There is nothing which the New England politician dreads so much as a union between the West and South. Every effort has been made during the present session to prevent it, and large promises made by the East to the people of the West to secure a union of interests between them. It may succeed if our people are not on the alert, but I do not think it will. The Western people realize the fact that their true interests are in alliance with the South, and that the best policy for both sections is to draw closer the ties of a commercial intercourse.

NORTHERN SENTIMENT.

Alluding to the war in Arkansas, the New York Herald says:

The condition of the Southern States is a scandal. We can never feel that we have perfect peace until we have perfect reconstruction. Dante, in his immortal poem, speaks of visiting that hell where the surface of the black waters was everbubbling. It was because of the sighs of suffering souls imprisoned beneath the waters. We never see these bubblings and restless movement of Southern society without feeling that they represent the imprisoned souls beneath, and hoping that the time may come when they will be released from their thraldom, and admitted to the responsibility of a generous and untainted citizenship. * * * * Our best wishes go with the Southern people in their efforts to destroy the vampires who have fastened upon them and now have their will. Our reconstruction thus far is a scandal and a shame.—We have shown that we could destroy the Confederacy, but we have not shown how to restore the Union. Arkansas is only a series of distressing scandals.

DEATH OF ADMIRAL FRANKLIN BUCHANAN.—The death of Admiral Franklin Buchanan is announced at his residence, known as 'The Rest,' on Miles river, in this State. He was born in Baltimore about 1800, and entered the navy in 1815. He was the first Superintendent of the United States Naval Academy, 1845—47, became Captain in 1855, and in 1861 was Commandant of the Navy Yard at Washington. On April 19, 1861, he resigned his commission in the United States Navy, and he entered the Confederate service. He superintended the fitting out of the iron clad Merrimac at Norfolk, and commanded this vessel in her attack upon the Federal fleet at Hampton Roads, March 8, 1862, in which action he was wounded. He subsequently rose to the rank of Admiral in the Confederate service, and commanded the fleet in Mobile bay, which was defeated by Farragut August 5, 1864. In this engagement he was severely wounded, taken prisoner and detained until the close of the war. For some time past he has been living in retirement at his home on Miles river. He has been ill for several weeks. During his last illness he was attended by Drs. Karle and Bateman, who were with him almost constantly. On Sunday evening last he was somewhat better, but on Monday morning his condition became worse, and there was no improvement until the hour of his death. He died during the night of Tuesday. Admiral Buchanan was a skillful, conscientious and brave officer, and had many warm personal friends who will regret to hear of his demise.—Baltimore Gazette, 14th.

RATHER EARLY IN THE SPRING.—Helena (Montana) Herald.—There is a young lady in this city who has the misfortune to talk in her sleep, and it is said she will answer unconsciously the questions which are secrets in her waking hours. She is waited upon by a timid young man who has never been able to screw his courage up to the 'sticking place.' And now her to marry him. He went up one night last week and entering the front door, as was his habit, without ringing the bell, he saw his duleinea asleep on the parlor sofa. He hesitated a moment after the propriety of advancing without announcing himself, when he heard his own name softly expressed from between those coral lips. Immediately the pent-up burden of his heart broke out in words:

'Dearest, do you love me?'

'Yes,' was the soft response from the sleeper.

'Will you marry me?'

'Yes.'

'Shall it be in a year?'

'Any time.'

'Let it be in six months.'

There was a moment's silence and suspense, when the lips again moved, and the young man heard distinctly the little word—

'May.' He stepped cautiously back and glided quietly from the house, but has not referred to the conversation with the sleeper. May is a very pleasant month, but the time is rather too soon for the young man.

Hillsborough Recorder.

WEDNESDAY.....MAY 27, 1874.

FOR SUPT. OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

Col. Stephen D. Pool,

OF CRAVEN.

EDITORS' CORRESPONDENCE.

WILMINGTON May 21st '74.

I write this afternoon without much of definite information for my readers of Wednesdays issue; too soon entirely to detail the operations of the Episcopal Convention now in session, and with too brief a period of intercourse with the citizens and politicians to gathered up many items of interest. A discursive chat is all I can undertake.

The Convention above referred to is one of the largest of the Episcopal Church ever assembled in the State. From the Annual Address of the Bishop of the Diocese, delivered this morning, it appears that there are fifty-seven parochial clergy in the Diocese, exclusive of the Bishop and Assistant Bishop. Of this number, there are forty-one present, besides the Bishops. The Lay delegation is also large and respectable, including such gentlemen as Judge Battle, Gen. Martin, Seaton Gales, Thos. B. Hill and many others of the highest social position, and intellectual endowment.

A feature in the Convention is the presence of two colored ministers, each of whom is in charge of a parish, one in this city, the other in Fayetteville. They take their seats on an equal footing with the other members, but are quiet and unobtrusive. Their presence has disturbed the quiet of some, who on that account, have not been present in the Convention. The Episcopal Church has always eschewed politics in its zeal for the one object of its pursuit—the cure of souls—and may be safely entrusted to pilot through the troubled waters of politics, this, to many, dangerous innovation and daring approach to practical civil rights demonstration.

The people of this city are now in the full enjoyment of one of their dearest privileges, and the illustration of one of their most striking traits—that of hospitality. Wilmington and that word have always been synonymous. The old habits prevalent in early days when the whole community of the lower Cape Fear was but one large family, interchanging in turn the duties and pleasures of mutual entertainment, became fixed as a local trait which time has not affaced, and altered circumstances have not weakened. Such occasions as the present are seized upon with avidity as fit periods for the display of this charming characteristic.

This is one reason why Wilmington so long was open to the reproach of the passing traveler. A good hotel could not exist against the assaults of private hospitality. The reproach is removed to some extent by the excellent 'Purcell' 'National' and 'Manning' houses. But the mammoth establishments which are so prominent and necessary institutions, north or south of us, could not spring into existence here.

The weather is in striking contrast to what I left behind me, and hot enough to satisfy the most eager expectant of summer weather. The streets would be insufferably disagreeable from the dust, but for the judicious introduction of water carts, which every half hour make their rounds and jet out grateful showers upon the thirsty earth.

One of the most marked illustrations of the difference between this climate and ours is given in the markets. A walk through them this morning showed me new potatoes of full size, beets, beans, peas and other vegetables, for some of which we will have to wait for some weeks: and also strawberries, and blackberries, the latter of which are only now in bloom with us.

The fish market is also attractive to a back country man. The shad are gone, but the delicacies of the sea in the form of blackfish, blue fish, sun fish, flounders drum and trout, besides many varieties of smaller fish, are presented in great abundance, and show the lavish bounty of nature in the donation of such cheap, wholesome and delicious aliment. I observe that the fish market is much better supplied than it was in former years, the demand of an increased population having begotten more energy and enterprise among the fishermen, many of whom pursue their calling far beyond the main bar, in the turbulent waters of old Ocean himself.

I have not yet had time to visit many points of interest which would furnish subjects for instructive description, or saddening or pleasing reference. Among the latter would be the beautiful Oakdale Cemetery, so lovely, that there, death seems robbed of all its painful association. The bright evergreen and the beautiful flower suggest ideas of hope and immortality and hide from sight and almost from imagination the thoughts of time, of decay and of mourning.

The political prospect here is cheering enough to the Conservative party. The nomination by the Radicals of Neill McKay for Congress, and the restoration of harmony in the radical ranks, by the acquiescence of Malcom. Smith, and others in that nomination, will only nerve the Conservatives to stronger effort, and the re-election of Waddell, is regarded as certain by increased majority. The feeling among our friends is of the best kind, and so far from being the slightest show of opposition to, or disappointment at the result of the Magnolia Convention, all have rallied to the support of Waddell with an enthusiasm which will develop to quite as white a heat as that which marked his first campaign and carried him triumphantly into the Congressional seat.

C.

MR. PARISH'S CARD.

Like Mr. Cunningham, Mr. Parish comes forward manfully, and takes his place, with true fealty to party allegiance, where his party is most needful of his services—as a leader or as a private. With such a spirit, and with such examples as these the Conservative party will achieve the destiny committed to it, allowing no personal ambition, no private grievances, no selfish rivalry, to stand in the way of the cause which has deliverance from State oppression and National corruption as its aim.

We feel an assurance now, that in the noble, self sacrificing spirit exhibited by Mr. Cunningham and Mr. Parish, all conflicting claims will be amicably reconciled at Prospect Hill, and that the campaign will result in a new triumph to Conservative principles.

For the Recorder.

HILLSBORO, May 21st 1874.

Mr. Editor: On the 9th May 1874, the people of Orange county through their chosen representatives assembled in Convention at Hillsboro, and saw proper to give me the almost unanimous vote for one of the Senators from this Senatorial district; and in doing so, the people of Orange county acted under a fair and reasonable belief that they were entitled to one of the Senators, and with no view or purpose to forestall or influence the action of the Convention at Prospect Hill; but as this matter has, for the last two months been much talked about, by the people, and discussed through the public Journals first in the Milton Chronicle, then in the Tobacco Plant and lastly in the Recorder, all of which has brought about a rather unpleasant state of things culminating in the communication in your issue of last week signed 'Person,' and from the fact that my name has been brought forward as the choice of Orange county for one of the Senators, and for fear my true motives and feelings on the subject may be misconstrued by the people of the district, you will, I know, allow me a space in your paper for this Card.

As a private in the ranks for about twenty-two years, I have been closely connected, and always took a deep interest and an active part in political matters, and to that party where my judgment told me was right. I was a steadfast friend and earnest co worker in the cause and for the principles which I thought were for the good of the whole country. Without alluding to the old parties that existed before the war, allow me to say that I find myself to-day by instinct as well as judgment, closely and inseparably connected with the white mans party, commonly called the Conservative Democratic party. I am there because my sense, judgment and feelings could lead me no where else. I am then ready, willing and serious, at all times, and under all circumstances, and in any capacity, to espouse its cause which I know to be honest, which I know to be right, and which I know to be for the good of the whole people, of every race, sect or condition. I am ready now, and willing as I have ever been to denounce corruptionists, bribetakers, corrupt Legislators, corrupt officials, whether Judicial, Municipal or State, rail road monopolies, bond swindlers and the like, all of which is now and has been for years past raping and destroying the vitals of our good old State; and never could I, under any circumstances, while sense or memory remains, by my own act or conduct do anything, to jar the harmony, detract the influence, or weaken the good work which I feel assured is going on, and will end by a dethronement of the Radical and dominant power in the State.

Alike, 'Person' I am no disorganizer, and never will be. The highest duty a citizen owes to the State, is perfect obedience to its laws, so too, is it equally true, that every true man will feel himself bound to yield all personal perferment to the good of the common cause. I have yielded once, and will do it again if the cause demands it, but unlike 'Person' I cannot adopt his dictation. I will not throw down the gauntlet, and say like 'Person' thus far, and no further:—I will not vote for your nominee &c." A five year old boy may lead a horse to water, but a thousand men cannot make him drink."

I think I know the people of Person county, and a truer or better people never lived, and while I award to them the right to think and act for themselves, and at the same time assured they will do right. I cannot believe that the sentiments of 'Person' the correspondent are the sentiments of Person county, and would in all friendliness remind 'Person' that in conciliation and union we have strength, by which alone we may be enabled to do battle against the common foe.

C. E. PARISH.

ORANGE COUNTY, 22nd May '74.

Editor Recorder:

In your issue of the 20th inst., my attention has been called to a correspondence signed "Person" and from the haughty and dictatorial manner and spirit in which it seems to have been dictated, accurately calls forth this reply.

I cannot endorse any thing 'Person' has said, or agree with him in his ideas of fair dealing; if it is true that this Senatorial district is composed of three counties and a Senator chosen from either of the counties or both from one county, in point of law, would be equally bound to represent all alike, and such representatives would be legal; but would it be fair in point of fact, for Person and Caswell to say to Orange: Yes, although you are our Tug-Boat which safely brings us across the breakers, yet you shall have none of your men to represent us in the next Senate. Is it fair for Person or Caswell to say, Orange you may do the voting, (and we expect you to give us a big majority) yet we will send our men, so stand back. It is well known, that Person county (although as true as steel) has not the population which entitles her to a Senator, and that in herself, although every vote she gives might be Democratic, yet she could not send a Senator; hence it was necessary to attach her to some other county. It would not do to attach her to Caswell for it was thought that Caswell's Republican majority would over-ride Person's Democratic majority, and then we would lose a Senator; so to remove all doubt Orange was attached to both, which insures the election of two Senators from the three counties. Orange was quite independent of either Person or Caswell, she always was entitled to a Senator, and is now and has about 600 Democratic majority; besides we have nothing to gain by the union, but if 'Persons,' sentiments are to be adopted we have something to lose, to wit: a Senator.

'Person' seems to doubt the correctness of the statement of the Editor of the Tobacco Plant, that there was an agreement with the different delegations that Orange was to have a Senator at each election, and that Person and Caswell were to alternate: the Editor of the Plant was present at Prospect Hill as a delegate and saw, heard and acted for himself. The correspondent, 'Person' was not there, as he says, but never heard of such agreement before &c.. To corroborate the statement of the Plant, allow me to say, that I have heard nearly all of the delegates from Orange and more than one of the delegates from Person, say, that while there was no such resolution passed in the Convention yet it was so agreed to and conceded by all, conceded by all, because it was fair, because it was right, and yet this is termed by 'Person' as 'nonsense' and further characterizes it as 'not only arrogant, but excessively selfish.' So far as Orange is concerned, she has made no claim in an haughty or arrogant manner, she may submit to decision at Prospect Hill, she does not or will not attempt to force or drive in the matter, but for the reason, that her population heretofore and now entitle her to a Senator and the further reason, that her Democratic majority ensures the election of both Senators, she thinks she is not 'selfish' or 'arrogant' to express the belief that she ought to have one of the Senators to the General Assembly, and does not think it is 'nonesense' to say so.

'Person' further remarks, that 'Orange had not only her two Commoners, but one of the two Senators' in the last election. Preposterous idea! Well done for 'Person' and pray sir, did not Person have the same, only she was entitled to one, and not two Commoners. We know not how far we may be indebted to the Person county influence in placing Maj. Graham on the State ticket, but we do know, that Col. Cunningham and his friends are solely indebted, not merely to the influence, but to the actual vote of the Orange delegation at Prospect Hill for his seat in the Senate.

It is currently reported here, and it seems to come from well authenticated sources, that Person will not give up her favorite, Col. Cunningham, and that she means to log-roll with Caswell, to throw their Tug-boat (Orange) out in the cold. We cannot believe however, that Caswell will consent to such an arrangement, but if such be true, Orange will say, boys, paddle your own Canoe, you can nominate, but you cannot elect; but I hope better things. I hope harmony will prevail, and justice will be done, and that nothing will be attempted, or done to give offence. By which we the Democratic party alone will be the losers, and the Radicals may have cause to rejoice.

It is well known that the gentlemen chosen for the House of Representatives in Orange, are not much given to public speaking, and while they are good and true men, yet they will have but little power to draw out the people or to create any enthusiasm in the approaching contest, and now more than ever is it desired by our people, that one of the Senators should come from Orange to aid in bringing out the people and conducting the campaign, and that the candidate for Congress and for Judge both of which is to be elected this summer, will not lose votes, but the majority in Orange increased. Besides, Orange, very recently, in her Convention, representing every nook and corner of the county, cast her solid vote for Caswell's favorite son for Judge of this district. I think I well know the high sense of honor which has in all this past characterized the people of Caswell, and that under a sense of duty as well as a compliment, her delegates will cast her solid vote at Prospect Hill for Orange's chosen man.

ORANGE.

UNHAPPY AND DISGRACED STATE

The state of affairs in South Carolina is enough to heat the blood of every Southern man; its social and moral condition is humiliating and painful to the last degree. We know no more infamous exhibition than that made by Moses, the present Governor of the State. For an educated southern man we know no one who has gone down to a deeper or darker pit of infamy and shame. In the name of Moses the Scalawag Governor of South Carolina we sum up all that is hateful and in a southern man or public functionary, and we append below an article from the Charlotte Observer which gives us a truthful picture of the state of affairs in our sister State, and portrays in strong and appropriate language the vices and villanies of a base bad man:

"The situation remains unchanged. Moses is master of the field. He still refuses to be arrested, and defies the law.

Certainly he shows pluck. He is a bold thief. He would shine in the profession of highway robbery. Moses steals, but never surrenders.

Heretofore he had shown himself an adept in the fine art of swindling. But not until the Sheriff of Orangeburg attempted to arrest him on a charge of larceny, did he exhibit those traits of daring, which, added to his eminent qualifications as a thief, render him one of the most gallant bummers in the Republican army.

The star of Moses is in the ascendant. Already it threatens to out shine the stars of Butler, and Colfax, Brooks, Tweed, Littlefield, Swinson, and other splendid luminaries in the sky of American Politics. He possesses many of the most prominent qualifications of these distinguished gentlemen but he surpasses them all in native pluck.

The Massachusetts genius pacifies the monster Justice by the diligent exercise of his sharp wits: the saintly hypocrite of Credit Mobilier fame sneaked off from the public gaze: Brooks raved: Tweed succumbed: Littlefield ran, and the mighty man of Raleigh ingloriously bargained with the enemy.

But Moses steals and stands his ground. His example is an illustrious one, and we shall not be surprised to see it followed in similar cases by Republican officials. Perhaps Moses is but aping Gov. Holden, who held himself above the law and the constitution in the Kirk war in 1870. This resistance to rightful authority proved Holden's ruin. Maybe a like disastrous fate awaits the gallant Governor of South Carolina.

Moses commits larceny, and contends that he is not amenable to the process of the criminal courts. He is conscious of the dignity of a 'loyal' thief, and is indignant at the bare suggestion of his being brought to justice. He recognizes no such plank in the platform on which he stands. The punishment of official rogues is no part of the doctrine of his party.

It is of vast importance to Moses that he resist this indictment, for if it is fixed as a precedent that the Governor is liable to indictment for official misconduct by any of the thirty-two Grand Juries in South Carolina, his majesty's place would be totally destroyed, for his roguaries are co-extensive with the size of the State he governs. He has debauched every department of government and stolen from every crib, and he will never get full justice until every court in the State has hanged him.

PASSAGE OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.

Washington, May 23.—The civil rights bill passed in the Senate this morning at half past 7 o'clock, after an all night session, by a strict party vote. There were forty-five Senators present.

Many colored and old white people who are not government pap-eaters, deplore the action of the Senate as destructive of the public schools throughout the South.

It is asserted by the best informed parliamentary tacticians that the Democrats have power to stave off final action on the civil rights bill until after adjournment.

Mr. Carpenter, upon the final vote, was among the nays. His point was, that the Federal Government had no right to interfere with State juries any more than with State legislatures. He swallowed the bill in all other respects.

☞ Governor Caldwell is outspoken in his denunciation of the Civil Rights Bill. Hear, ye darkies.

The Mercury on Monday was at 90 in the shade. The weather is every way suitable to wheat.

Tim Lee and Joe Holden have rec'd their party in town in Wake.

Will the Conservatives heed their advantages, or will they neutralize them by discontent among themselves?

The District Convention held in Raleigh on Saturday, is favorable to the nomination of Josiah Turner Jr. for Congress. The preference of the other counties, except Orange, already declared for Mr. Turner—are divided among different gentlemen.

The Convention for the District meets at Raleigh on Monday next.

Messrs Horner & Graves School.

We learn that the Exercises of this school will be closed on Thursday evening the 28th. by an exhibition in Declamation by some 10 or twelve speakers.

This exhibition will come off at half after 8 o'clock—in the Academic Hall—and to it the citizens of Hillsboro and all others who take an interest in such exhibitions are most respectfully invited. It is to be hoped that the citizens of our village will make a good turn out on this occasion. By such attendance they will give interest and life to the exhibition and do much to inspire the youths here assembled for education with new zeal to excel. Besides [illegible] due to the faithful [illegible] taking [illegible] to be so encouraged by the presence of those who and should no doubt do feel the deepest interest in their labors.

The first session of this school at Hillsboro has been marked by eminent success. But not greater than we anticipated and meditated on in knowing the worth and merit of the gentlemen to whose hands it had been committed. It is indeed a school of merit, and in the language of The Southern Home "without a bit of show." We presume that the public will be duly honored at the time of the opening of the next session. We learn that at least one and perhaps two additional Instructors will be added—both distinguished graduates of the University of Virginia. Messrs Horner & Graves aim at the highest standard of excellence in their school, and their liberality and intelligence in selecting their aspirants is a guarantee of their success. The health of the location—the fine buildings accessible—the general tone and complexion of all its surroundings give it a pre-eminent advantage and, as we remarked at its opening must make it a great favorite with parents solicitous for the mental moral and physical training of their sons.

We learn that a portion of the citizens desired to manifest their interest in the school and respect for the officers and cadets by tendering them a party to be given at the Masonic Lodge on Thursday evening the 28th, but this conflicting with the exercises of the school it has been arranged to come off Wednesday evening the 27th instead of Thursday the 28th. That the services of a fine band of music has been obtained from Raleigh on the occasion and a most agreeable entertainment is anticipated. It is hoped and confidently expected that the occasion will be graced by some fair visitors from abroad as well as a large attendance of the lovely daughters of our own village.

Sufferers from coughs, colds, bronchitis, croup, influenza or whooping cough, will find relief in Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, which has now been in use for nearly half a century, and still maintains its long established reputation as the great remedy for all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest.

THE EXCURSION.

In our last issue we made brief mention of the free invitation to the crossing of The Valley by the Fair, when the Excursion, as a prominent feature in the programme, would reach Haw River, the ultimate point of destination.

A handsome train, placed at the disposal of the party by the munificence of the authorities of the North Carolina Rail Road, left Raleigh at half past 8 o'clock, filled not only with the Press Gang, but by a choice deputation of the Board of Trade of Raleigh, many of the citizens of the place, and the full band of Frank Stanley's Rich volunteered for the occasion, and added much to the animation and pleasure of the trip.

The train sped on at unusual rate and a little more than an hour brought it to Durham. Few of the party, we imagine had formed any definite conception of this place, or were at all prepared for the hearty reception, the generous hospitality, or for the display of the industries, the energies, and the productions of this new creation of enterprise and intelligence.

The visitors were first introduced into the tobacco warehouse of Reams & Walker, which is the most showy of all the establishments of this kind, where the formal reception was given in a speech by Mr. S. F. Tomlinson in behalf of the Board of Trade, and which was replied to by Major Engelhard with remarkable aptness and felicity. The visitors were then at liberty to partake of the refreshments which were bountifully displayed. But the eye was soon drawn from these to the survey of the rich and tasteful display of Durham handiwork.

On a side table were exhibited bountiful specimens of the work of all the smoking tobacco factories; The Gold Leaf of R. F. Morris & Co. the Premium Star of Webb & Boulhac, the Favorite of Durham of R. T. Faucett, the Golden Belle of W. R. Hughes, the 'Choice' Durham of Lockhart & Co, the Duke of Durham of R. L. Duke, and the Pride of Durham of Z. I. Lyon & Co. These were all at the disposal of the visitors, who freely made use of the opportunity, and who will doubly puff the praise of Durham in their pipes and in their papers. On another table were displayed two other articles of Durham skill, ink and blacking, the manufacture of H. C. Reams. This also were freely distributed.

Going into the plug factory of W. T. Blackwell & Co the same generous distribution of good things was made, and each editor and each visitor carried off abundant specimens of Blackwell's best.

A sojourn of an hour passed in the most pleasant social intercourse and in the most intelligent observation, impressed the party not only with the most kindly feelings toward their entertainers, but with the most lively ideas of the energy and sagacity of a people by whose agency a town has sprung up with the marvellous growth of Jonah's gourd, but with we hope, the lasting years of the eternal rocks.

HAW RIVER.

A rapid run brought the party to Haw River, without stop at intermediate points. Crossing the river, the train stopped near the head of the bridge, near the old Trollinger house, a place, which, from its antiquity furnished what is rare in our Southern country—a velvety turf, shaded by trees which have a pre-revolutionary existence. Under this shade, the eye caught sight of long lines of tables, already groaning under their savory load.

The duties of reception were gracefully performed by our hospitable host, but the reception speech was made in his behalf by Col. Ike Young, who acquitted himself very handsomely and who touched a responsive chord in the heart of every confederate present by happy references and reminiscencies. Mr. Denson on behalf of the press replied in one of the most beautiful off-hand speeches we have ever listened to. A full report of it is given in the Raleigh News, which is truthful, excepting that the life of the animated and graceful delivery is lost in its transfusion into type.

The party then made its assaults upon the dinner, which was bountiful enough for a regiment, elegant enough for the fastidious tastes of the city habitue, combining the old-fashioned profusion of the country with the refinement and ornament of urban feasts.

After the customary speeches, toasts &c. which were continued and repeated to repletion, the river was again crossed, and the party were conducted through the extensive cotton mills which give fame to "Haw River" station. We have already given in our columns an account of these mills, yet we had formed but a faint idea of the perfection of the machinery, the completeness of every arrangement, the smoothness and beauty of the fabrics, and above all, the extent of the operations.

We felt that in the presence of Thomas M. Holt, we were in the presence of a "revolutionist;" one who had set his mind and energies to the overthrow of old prejudices, to the introduction of new systems, to the working out of new problems of Southern wealth and Southern freedom. All honor to the man and to the men who are sagacious enough to see where our true strength lies, who are bold enough to tread the paths their wisdom points out, and who are daring enough and liberal enough to hazard their time their energies and their capital in verifying their theories and carrying out their ideas.

The visit to Haw River and to Durham has given the members of the press much to think of, and will add much strength to the Resolutions passed in the Convention, henceforth to make the material interests of the State a prime subject of newspaper [illegible] and intelligence.

AN ILLUSTRATION.

To illustrate the importance of advertising in your local paper, we will relate how a young merchant attained success in a sister State.

He began business with a capital of $1 000, and before he sold a dollar's worth of goods, he went to the editor of his village paper and inquired the price of a two column advertisement for one year. The reply was $300. The bargain was made on the condition that the editor would send a copy of his paper (the price of which was $3 a year) to any one of his customers for whom he might order it, for $2 a year. This was agreed to. The merchant remarked to the editor, that his object was to make a present of a copy of his paper to every one of his customers who should make an account of $50 with him, but did not take it, as he was determined his customers should read his advertisement. At the end of the first year he had by this means increased the circulation of his village paper seventy subscribers. This arrangement was kept up for ten years, when he retired from business with a net cash capital of over $10,000, and his village paper had, through him, attained the largest circulation of any country paper in the State.

We mention this fact merely to show that our prosperity in business depends very much upon our efforts to aid each other. Prosperity of one man is the prosperity, to a certain extent, of the whole community.—Wil Journal

Radical Meeting.

The County Convention of the faithful was held here on Saturday. Being absent, we can give no account of the proceedings. Tim Lee and Ike Young were both on the ground, both working hard for the Congressional nomination. We learn that John C. Hogan, and William Duke were nominated for the House of Representatives, but no preference expressed for Senator. There was no one put in nomination for the Sheriffalty, Clerkship, Treasurer or Register, the Conservative nominations for these offices expressing the wish of the people.

ASIATIC CHOLERA IN CHINA.

Almost Every Case Cured with PAIN-KILLER.

Dear Sir: During a residence of some ten years in Siam China, as a missionary, I found your Pain-Killer a most valuable remedy for that fearful scourge the Cholera.

In administering the medicine I found it most effectual to give a teaspoonful of Pain-Killer in a gill of hot water sweetened with sugar; then, after about fifteen minutes, begin to give about a tablespoonful of the same mixture every few minutes until relief was obtained. Apply hot applications to the extremities. Bathe the stomach with the Pain-Killer, clear, and rub the limbs briskly. Of those who had the Cholera, and took the medicine faithfully, in the way stated above, eight out of ten recovered.

Rev. R. TELFORD, Missionary to China.

Dear Sirs: During a long residence in China I have used your valuable Pain Killer, both in my own family and among the Chinese, and have found it a most excellent medicine. In the Summers of 1862 and '63, while residing in Shanghai, I found it an almost certain cure for cholera, if used in time. Indeed, using it in a great many instances, I do not remember failing in a single case. For three years I have been residing in this place, more than fifty miles from a physician and have been obliged often to fall upon my own resources in cases of sickness. The Chinese come to us in great numbers for medicine and advice. Though without medical knowledge ourselves, the few simple remedies we can command are so much in advance even of their physicians, that we have almost daily applications. We allow them to come, because it brings us in contact with them and opens a door of usefulness. In diarrhœa, cholic, vomiting, cholera, coughs, etc., your Pain-Killer has been my chief medicine.

Yours very truly.

Rev. T. P. CRAWFORD, Tungchow, China.

Those using Pain-Killer should strickly observe the following direction:

At the commencement of the disease, take a teaspoonful of Pain-Killer, in sugar and water, and then bathe freely across the stomach and bowels with the Pain-Killer clear. Should the diarrhœa and cramp continue, repeat the dose every fifteen minutes. In this way the dreadful scourge may be checked and the patient relieved in the course of a few hours.

N. B.—Be sure and get the genuine article; and it is recommended by those who have used the Pain-Killer for the cholera, that in extreme cases the patient take two (or more) teaspoonfuls instead of one.

VINEGAR BITTERS

PURELY VEGETABLE

DR. WALKER CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammation, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuge, no anthelmintic will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.
